BACKGROUND

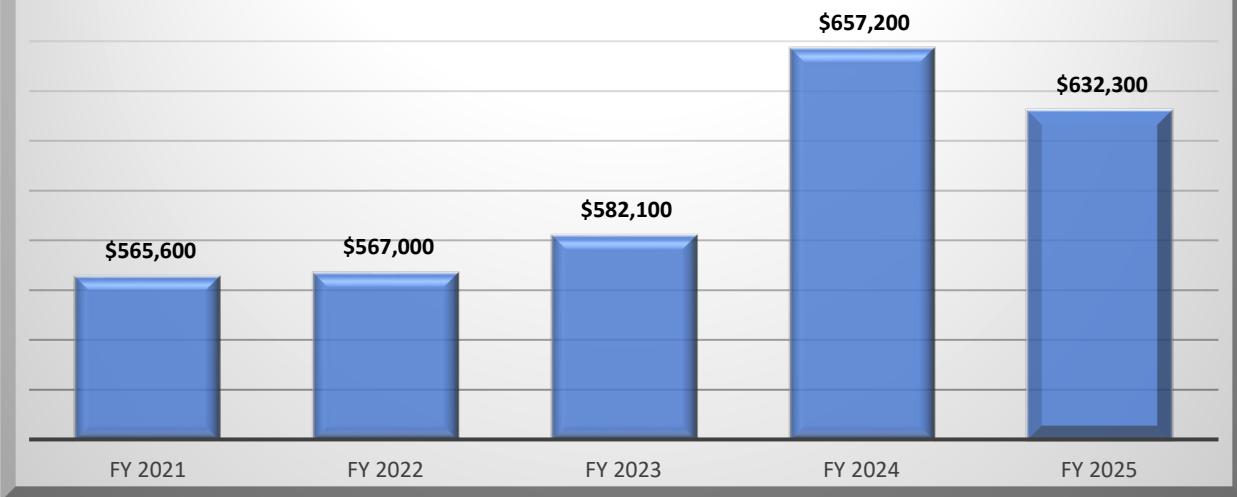

The Orphans' Court handles all matters involving estates and wills as the probate court in Maryland, and some guardianship matters of minors.

The Orphans' Court and the Register of Wills Offices are located on the fourth floor within the DuVall Wing of the Upper Marlboro Courthouse.

The Orphans' Court derives its name from pre-colonial England, carried over by Lord Baltimore from the City of London's Court for Widows and Orphans. In 1777, the Maryland General Assembly formally established an Orphans' Court and Register of Wills in each county and the City of Baltimore. That structure still operates today.
